

Spazio temporary license disclaimer and instructions

The Spazio free temporary license is available for Primeur customers only in the case of an emergency. Its validity is thirty days from creation time.

Installation consists in copying the attached file, with no modifications, to the Spazio installation directory, making sure that you also keep a copy of the old license file.

After this, you need to contact your Primeur sales representative in order to regularize the license obtained.

The Primeur Contact Center is available to deal with any technical problems:

- Phone: +39 010 2781300
- Web: <http://www.primeur.com>
- Mail: helpdesk@primeur.com

The customer, and not Primeur, remains responsible for the installation of the licence.

Running spgetid program

In order to allow Primeur to issue a valid license for every installation, the customer must run the spgetid program (in spazio/bin directory) for every computer on which Spazio 2.3 will be installed: the program extracts the informations relating to the hardware of the machine and writes them to the file spgetid.txt, which is created in spazio/bin directory.

How to find out the MAC address on your system without spgetid

On Microsoft(R) Windows™ systems: click on "Start", then on "Run..." and type in "cmd.exe". When the command prompt is open, type "ipconfig/all" and press "Enter". You'll see your networking parameters. Your MAC address corresponds to the "Physical address" parameter.

On GNU/Linux systems : if you are in a graphical environment, you can run "xterm", to open a bash shell. Then you can type "ifconfig": your MAC address corresponds to the HW address. If you are in a console environment, simply run "ifconfig" (you should probably be logged in as root).

On other systems: contact your system administrator to find out your MAC address.
